Here, the mockapi will send the following data

Here if the credentials will match then it will be redirected to home page. The token will be stored in local storage, and if the user presses the logout, the token will be deleted and the application will be redirected automatically to login page. The user will not be able to go to any other route if the token is not present because all routes are protected.

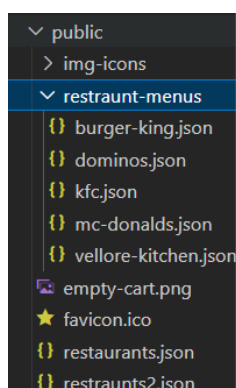

Click on this username to logout.

3. Restraunts

I have stored the data in the json format for the first five restrants.

Restraunts represents the “top restrants” and restrants2 represents other restrants.

4. After clicking the restraint you will get the menu, after clicking the add option, item will be added to cart
